

PARTNER IMPACT REPORT

For the past two years, AppDynamics has partnered with Cleveland Elementary, located in the Excelsior neighborhood of San Francisco, with about 78% of students identifying as LatinX and a majority from low-income families. During the Ed Fund’s first meeting of the year in September, Cleveland’s principal, Marlon Escobar, shared that teachers were experiencing high burn out levels that were most commonly seen in December. With no end to the pandemic in sight, AppDynamics focused on teacher morale, bringing the joy and fun back into school and stepping in to provide resources wherever they were most needed.

With the Omicron surge ramping up, Cleveland needed air purifiers and COVID tests to ensure their school was as safe as possible, especially since most students were not yet eligible for the vaccine—AppDynamics got right on it. For Teacher Appreciation Month in May, the team donated funds so that each staff member could have a gift card as well as a large catered lunch. The school secretary wrote after the lunch, “Everything was perfect! This is one for the books.”

AppDynamics team members volunteered in person for the first time in over two years! A team organized library books, leveled them so kids can identify appropriate books, and helped teachers wrap up their classrooms. We can’t wait to get back to more in-person volunteering next year and for AppDynamics to continue to exemplify what it means to be a community partner.
